Risk Indicator

Lower risk ◀ ▶ Higher risk

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 5 years. If you sell your product earlier you may have to sell at a price that significantly impacts how much you get back.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 5 out of 7, which is a medium-high risk class. This suggests the risk from market movements is medium-high. However, the summary risk indicator only reflects historic share price volatility of the company's shares based on historic price with dividends reinvested. It excludes other risks inherent in the product and, therefore, does not show the full risk to the investor.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance, so you could lose some or all your investment.

Performance Scenarios

Market developments in the future cannot be accurately predicted. The scenarios shown are only an indication of some of the possible outcomes based on recent returns. Actual returns could be lower.

This table shows the money you could get back over the next 5 years, under different scenarios, assuming that you invest £10,000. The scenarios shown illustrate how your investment could perform. You can compare them with the scenarios of other products. The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of this investment varies and are not an exact indicator. What you get will vary depending on how the market performs and how long you keep the product. The stress scenario shows what you might get back in extreme market circumstances, and it does not take into account the situation where we are not able to pay you. The figures shown include all the costs of the product itself, but may not include all the costs that you pay your advisor or distributor. The figures do not take into account your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back.

The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in a period of increased economic uncertainty. Users should note that the scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on historical data which reflect severe recent market dislocations and should not be taken to reflect the future potential impacts of COVID-19 or prospects for economic recovery.
